- Fall grazing school - September 11-12, 2012 at the C. Oran Little Research Center and the Woodford County Extension Office.

Advanced KY Grazing School
- The first Advanced Grazing School will be held on July 10, 2012 from 9 till 4:30 PM EDT at the C. Oran Little Research Center in Woodford County.
- This program is meant as a refresher for those who have previously attended a grazing program and wish to further their grazing knowledge.
- This program will consist of demonstrations and hands-on activities illustrating concepts and ongoing research in grazing.

Grazing Networks
- Currently, four grazing networks have pasture walks scheduled
  - Western Kentucky Network (Todd, Trigg, and Christian Counties)
  - Kentucky River Network (Anderson and Woodford Counties)
  - Northern Kentucky Network (Boone, Pendleton, Campbell, Kenton, and Grant Counties)
- The Kentucky River Network, which is a newly started group, held their first pasture walk on February 27 at Buddy Smith’s Farm with 9 local producers attending. Topics
- The Western Kentucky Network will hold their first pasture walk of the 2012 grazing season on April 5.
- The Northern Kentucky Network will have their first pasture walk of the year on April 24. This program will focus on spring grazing techniques.

Grazing News Newsletter
- The first newsletter for the 2012 grazing season was published in January and newsletters have continued to be published each month. (see attached copies)
- This year, the newsletter is being sent to a larger audience including all Cooperative Extension-Ag agents. Producers and industry partners can sign up to receive electronic notification (with web links) to new issues and their contents.
- The newsletter contains timely articles with information and ideas to help Kentucky producers improve their grazing systems.

Master Grazer Website
(www2.ca.uky.edu/grazer)
- The Master Grazer Programs website was launched in February 2012.
- The website contains information and accomplishments of all Master Grazer programs, upcoming events that might be of interest, past newsletter articles, links to UK publications, and links to other important websites.
